

From hotels to restaurants: The best new openings in Singapore

 cntraveller.in/story/from-hotels-to-restaurants-the-best-new-openings-in-singapore

By Chris Schalkx

May 22, 2022

Even though tourists have essentially been locked out of Singapore for almost two years, Singapore's hoteliers and restaurateurs didn't sit still: over the past two years, they've launched and revived heaps of new hotels and restaurants, from Chinatown to Little India. Read on for the new sights to see, hottest tables to book, and new and updated hotels worthy of planning a trip around, to take advantage of Singapore reopening.

All listings featured in this story are independently selected by our editors. However, when you book something through our retail links, we may earn an affiliate commission.

A tranquil pond at a free public park within Jurong Lake Gardens in Singapore.

Nikada/Getty

New and updated Singapore hotels to book

Among Singapore's most exciting hotel arrivals is The Clan Hotel, which debuted last year in a sleek glass tower overlooking the shophouses of Chinatown. Inspired by the rich history of the Chinese immigrants that settled here in the 19th century, stays here start with a Chinese tea ceremony and continue with local touches woven throughout the property: from zhezhi (a Chinese origami technique) inspired artworks by Singaporean artist Grace Tan, to chrysanthemum-infused beers brewed exclusively for the hotel. All rooms, swathed in slate gray and licks of beige and bronze, come with dazzling city views and access to a rooftop gym and pool, while the top-floor rooms come with 'Clan Keeper' concierge service that can include personalised tours around local shrines, galleries, and to old-timey artisans; tiffin-box deliveries of local hawker specialties; and turndown services with sleep-inducing essential oils and bath salts.